A PARALLEL CASE

Condition of the A. & M. College of Texas the Same as That of Iowa's College in 1891.

WHAT AN INTER-URBAN RAILWAY

Did for It---Similar to the Proposed Bryan-College Railway---A Paying Investment From the Start.

The Eagle reporter had an interview last Saturday with Prof. C. F. Curtis, of Ames, Iowa, director of the Iowa agricultural experiment station, and dean of the school of agriculture. Prof. Curtis was here as a guest of Dr. D. F. Houston who asked him to give the reporter some items regarding the Iowa college's experience with an inter-urban railway, connecting the town of Ames and the college; the purpose being to throw some light upon the proposed Bryan-College electric railway.

Prof. Curtis said that the Iowa A. & M. College is located in the country, two miles from the town of Ames. Prior to the year 1891, the students of the college had to live in dormitories, built by the State, just as is the case with our A. & M. College. The attendance, restricted to the capacity of the dormitories, was under 400, and the work and influence of the school was quite limited, compared with what it is at present. Appropriations for dormitories were difficult to obtain, and students were crowded into improvised quarters of unsuitable character. The limit of the development of the school seemed to be reached.

But in 1891 the citizens of the village of Ames with a little help from outside capitalists, succeeded in the construction of a steam railway connecting the town and the school, allowing students and teachers who could not get accommodations at the school to find them in the town. The resulting effect upon both town and school was magical. The college began to grow with wonderful strides, and has kept it up ever since, until the present attendance is 1500, besides 600 to 700 short course students at certain seasons of the year. The town increased from a village of 1500 to more than 4000, and has no other resource of consequence except the college. It is not a county seat like Bryan, neither is it a trading point for a large territory, and Prof. Curtis said that without the support of the college it has little cause for existence at all.

Freed from the incubus of spending legislative appropriations for dormitories, the college turned its funds into legitimate educational work, and has grown in the favor of the people of Iowa until biennial appropriations for its support and maintenance amount to a million dollars. A new administration building, just completed, cost $375,000; a new agricultural hall $220,000, which with other buildings recently completed or in course of construction amount to a total cost of about $960,000. The school has grown more in ten years since it was united with the town by this railway, said Prof. Curtis, than it ever grew in thirty years previous thereto. One hundred private boarding houses have been built, one-third of the college faculty live in the town, and all supplies are drawn from the local merchants and dealers. The one-third of the faculty here referred to amounts to a considerable number of people, for the faculty is about four times as large as that of the A. & M. College of Texas.

A fare of ten cents for the round trip is charged. The road being only two miles long, the inducement for patronage is not so great as Bryan road would have, for many students will walk back and forth when the distance is only two miles, whereas in the case of our proposed road, the distance would be a bar to such competition. Yet the little railroad has paid dividends on the investment from the very first. Ten per cent was paid the first year, and it is now paying 15 per cent. The capital stock of the company was $20,000, and it rose six months after the road was completed, to a premium of four and a half per cent. The road hauls passengers, express, mail, and general supplies. The dividends referred to have been paid, in spite of the expense of re-laying rails, substituting steel for iron. The directors of the road are now preparing to replace steam power with electricity, a move for more economical operation. The fact that the Bryan road would begin electric power is another point of the comparison that is in our favor.

Prof. Curtis thinks that our college has arrived at about the status that theirs had in 1891, but he thinks it has unusually bright prospects if given an opportunity to grow. The A. and M. college of Iowa is surrounded by six similar colleges of other states, the distance to any of which is under three hundred miles, while ours has an immense surrounding territory without another college of the kind. Here is the extensive area of Texas, Oklahoma and the Indian Territory to the north, New Mexico, Arizona and Old Mexico to the west and southwest, while it has patronage now from both Arkansas and Louisiana. The Texas college, Professor Curtis said, enjoys a splendid reputation already made.

By way of comment on the foregoing, The Eagle will say that the people of Bryan have presented to them here, on the very best authority, a case that parallels ours, and shows up very favorably indeed for the contention that Bryan should build the proposed electric railway to the College.

THE THIRD PERSON

By KEITH GORDON

Copyright, 1904, by T. C. McClure

They had been engaged for a week. Felicia's heart was full of the sweet wonder of it, yet her mind clung tenaciously to a theory imbibed in the unrecorded days that went before. It seemed a terrible theory now; but, bewildered though she was, she acknowledged its claim.

"Jack," she said solemnly, "an engagement should be the lightest, most easily broken thing in the world."

"Eh—what?" exclaimed her companion in amazement, bringing his truant gaze back from the stretch of moonlit country whose poetry seemed a symbol of his own happiness. "What's that you're saying?"

"An engagement," she repeated gravely, "should be taken as an experiment, a trial. At the first suspicion on the part of either person that he or she has made a mistake it should be broken."

An unconscious sigh expressed the relief she felt at getting this sentiment off her mind. Another moment and he was leaning toward her, with her hands clasped firmly, almost roughly, in his, his voice sterner than she had ever heard it.

"See here, little girl!"

At something that he saw in her face he stopped, and his glance softened.

"I see," he said at last, with boyish relief. "It's only a theory. But you eyes and smile nullified all attempts at criticism.

Jack, too, seemed impressed by the unusual character of the newcomer's charm. In repose her face was almost ugly. Then she would turn those wonderful, coercing eyes upon you and smile, and forever after you watched and waited.

Even in that first hour Felicia trembled for her supremacy. Covertly she noticed that Jack was as irresistibly attracted as she herself was. For ten whole minutes he had not once looked in her own direction.

"She has a lovely smile," the latter observed craftily as her lover walked home with her.

"Heavenly!" was his unsuspecting answer. "And her eyes! By Jove, I never saw such eyes! It isn't that they're so beautiful, but it's what they say. When she looks at you you feel as if you're it!"

Felicia, walking behind him in the narrow path, felt suddenly bereft. She didn't have eyes that made you feel that you were it. She didn't have a smile that even Jack grew enthusiastic over. She was just pretty.

"So unusual! She draws you in spite of yourself. I simply can't keep my eyes off her. She's fascinating."

On he went in the same strain, too absorbed expressing his interest and admiration to his other self to notice the forlorn brevity of her replies.

But in spite of his protests she was obdurate, and he went away in a huff.

If Felicia were capricious during the following week, Miss Danby was all that a man could wish. In her society Jack's wounded pride was soothed and comforted. She made him forget his worries and appear at his best.

Once, and once only, he had a heretical thought. He wished Felicia were more like her. Then he winced at his own disloyalty. Dear, blue-eyed, sunny Felicia! A wave of tenderness swept over him, and he determined to find out without further delay what was the impalpable shadow that lay between them ever since the Danbys came.

"Well, by Jove!" he exclaimed aloud, a light dawning upon him. Then, as if there were really no use of trying adequately to express the wonder that the suspicion caused him, he exclaimed again helplessly, "By Jove!"

"And she is the lady who believes that an engagement should be the lightest of ties; that engaged people should see as much as possible of unengaged ones. Oh, my eye!" And he threw back his head and roared with delight.

That afternoon they had it out. Felicia, with burning cheeks and flashing eyes, accused him hotly.

"You've been perfectly daft over her from the first moment. There's no use of denying it. You know you have, and our engagement!"

She choked, and Jack, who stood looking down at her, his hand thrust in the pockets of his short coat, finished the sentence.

"Has stood the test of the third person," he said in a teasing voice. Then he held out his arms, and after one startled, questioning glance she went to him.

WHY?

The reason One Minute Cough Cure relieves a cough in one minute, is because it acts first on the mucous membrane right where the cough troubles—in the throat or deep-seated on the lungs, destroying the microbes or cough germs and clearing the phlegm. One Minute Cough Cure not only destroys the disease germs, and clears out their poison, but it gives strength and elasticity to the delicate membrane which protect the throat and lungs. Opens the air passages and promotes unobstructed breathing. Causes the blood to receive its natural supply of oxygen, thus exhilarating the pulmonary organs with such strength and vigor that the lungs and bronchial tubes become bulwarks against the inception of disease. Asthma, Bronchitis, La Grippe, Cold on the Lungs and all Pulmonary Complaints that are curable are quickly cured by the use of

DISTRICT COURT.

Interest Centers in the McCorquodale Case Taken up Yesterday.

Work on the criminal docket was resumed yesterday in the district court. Following is the list of regular jurors for the week: James Cooper, J. G. W. Allen, Ed Hall, J. M. Peters, H. T. Lewis, A. M. Waldrop, Frank Fickey, J. T. Fuller, Joe Gralan, H. L. Gentry, J. W. Hassell, W. D. Fuller, W. W. Griffin, Henry Prinzel, W. O. Sanders, Henry Shepherd, Tony Dyess, C. L. Tobias, J. J. Vandiver, George Edge, J. C. Blume, W. C. Burkhalter, J. W. Beal, Wm. Andrews, W. G. Reynolds, J. B. Sanders.

A special venire of 100 men was summoned for the case of William McCorquodale, charged with the killing of Henry Spell December 7, 1904, which was taken up yesterday morning, both sides announcing ready for trial. The absence of several veniremen caused delay in getting started with the case, as attachments had to be issued, in consequence of which Judge Scott took occasion to comment on the great and needless expense to the county caused by absent jurors and emphasized the fact that exemption can only be claimed when the juror is present in person.

Fines were entered against several persons, among others a $100 fine against the sheriff of Harris county for failure to have four witnesses here.

In the McCorquodale case Judge A. G. Board, Doremus & Butler and J. C. Minkert represent the defendant, and District Attorney Ralston, Henderson, Hudson & Ford, J. R. Astin, Lamar Bethea and T. R. Batte the State.

The work of selecting the jury proceeded rapidly after dinner until the special venire was exhausted, excepting those for whom attachments had issued. Nine jurors were secured. There were comparatively few challenges, eight for the State and four for the defendant; but many disqualified. The court ordered that the seven veniremen for whom attachments were issued and another venire of thirty men be on hand at ten o'clock this morning, when the case will be resumed. The following are the jurors secured so far:

L. D. McGee, J. C. Lloyd, Tony Dyess, W. R. Parker, H. Z. T. Wilson, W. P. Burkhalter, J. L. Sample, Wiley Kelley, T. R. Josey.

IMPROVEMENTS AT VILLA MARIA.

Very considerable improvements are being made at Villa Maria Academy—more than ever before since the splendid main structure was completed. Additions are being made to the building, and as usual with the Sisters, all the work is of the most substantial and enduring nature. Galleries are being built around the building at places where no additions are made.

This is for the protection of the foundations and these galleries will also promote comfort and convenience. New cisterns are being put in, with the purpose of having cistern water alone for drinking purposes. The Sisters are ever alert for the health of the children and themselves.

The peach orchard is in full bloom, and is probably without exception, the finest and largest orchard in the county. There are five hundred fine peach trees, now three years old, which will bear a fine crop this season. They have had good culture and attention, are all fine, well shaped trees, and constitute a valuable asset of the institution. The small fruit acreage has been increased, the vineyard is flourishing, several hundred shade and ornamental trees have been planted, and Villa Maria gives promise of soon becoming a horticultural and arboreal paradise.

MECHANICAL WONDERS.

The Toys Louis XIV. Played With In His Childhood Days.

An extraordinary piece of mechanism was constructed for the amusement of Louis XIV. when a child. It consisted of a small coach drawn by two horses in which was the figure of a lady, with a footman and page behind. According to the account given by M. Camus, the constructor, this coach being placed at the extremity of a table of a determinate size, the coachman smacked his whip, and the horses immediately set out, moving their legs in a natural manner. When the carriage reached the edge of the table it turned on a right angle and proceeded along that edge till it arrived opposite to the place where the king was seated. It then stopped, and the page, getting down, opened the door, upon which the lady alighted, having in her hand a petition, which she presented, with a courtesy. After waiting some time she again courtesied and re-entered the carriage. The page then resumed his place, the coachman whipped up his horses, which began to move, and the footman, running after the carriage, jumped up behind it.

Louis XIV. had also an automaton opera in five acts, with fresh scenes for each. It measured sixteen and a half inches in breadth, thirteen inches four lines in height and one inch three lines in thickness for the working of the machinery.—Westminster Gazette.

RESURRECTION PLANTS.

The Curious Rose of Jericho and the Mexican Fern Ball.

The rose of Jericho is perhaps one of the most familiar of the curiosities of plant life known as resurrection plants. It is said to be imported from the valley of the river Jordan and is the resurrection plant mentioned in the Bible. The plant when received from its native home is simply a bunch of leafless and seemingly lifeless sticks or branches clustered tightly together. When placed in a glass of water, however, the branches expand, seed buds unfold, and soon the green foliage starts out, and the plant grows.

The Mexican resurrection plant is the fluffy, fernlike variety often noticed in saucers of water in the florist's window. When it is dormant it is a shrunken, rounded ball of tightly folded leaflets, dry and dead.

It is dropped in a bowl of tepid water, and soon one frondlike tip curls slowly outward, then another and another, and in a short time there is floating in the dish a beautiful metallic green plant, a great, loose, expanded rosette of fine fernlike leaves, odd and beautiful.

This experiment can be repeated many times, the plant curling together tightly when dry and expanding into new life when soaked in water.—Young People's Weekly.

GAS AS AN ILLUMINANT.

China. It Has Been Asserted, Used It Centuries Ago.

It has been asserted, but never proved conclusively, that China used gas for lighting purposes centuries before its use in the western world. If this was so it was doubtless natural gas.

Clayton, at the end of the seventeenth century, stored gas in bladders and played with it at times, and Lord Dundonald in 1787, in working a patent for coal tar, stored up the gas and occasionally used it for lighting up the hall of Culross abbey.

It is to the genius of a Scotsman, W. Murdoch, that we owe our bright illuminant. In 1792 he was living at Redruth, Cornwall, and after experiments in gasmaking he lit up his own house, much to the astonishment of his neighbors.

Called to Birmingham, he erected a large plant for lighting up the Soho works. This drew attention to the whole matter, and in 1803 London began street lighting. The Royal society in 1808 gave Murdoch its Rumford gold medal for his invention.—London Standard.

A Unique Collection.

Among the curious ways by which some persons in England make a living is the sale of castoff garments belonging to distinguished personages, for which the curiosity loving fashionable world affords a sure and profitable market. One English lady has a collection of corsets, including articles from the wardrobes of reigning imperial and royal personages as well as objects of historical interest. Among the latter are a leather corset belonging to Charlotte Corday, the heroine of the French revolution, and a construction of whalebone and steel worn by Marie Antoinette, with an eighteen inch waist.—Toilettes.

In order to disseminate the information among the greatest number concerning the Library Contest and to encourage the acquisition of good books, we will give any teacher, student or other person interested in good literature, a beautiful set of Ridpath's History of the World, bound in half morocco and gorgeously illustrated—sells for $36.00, and a complete set of the World's Greatest Orators and Essays—sells for $25.00, bound in silk buckram, library style, illustrations on imported Japanese paper. Both sets comprise 19 volumes and are a library within themselves. These two sets of books are given by THE BRYAN EAGLE to the country teacher, student, school or society getting the most votes by June 24. One dollar paid on subscription to The Eagle entitles the person bringing it in to 100 votes, also to 100 votes in the contest for the large library. Remember, votes secured for this contest count also for the other contest, and $1.00 paid The Eagle for Weekly subscription buys ten times as many votes as a dollar paid for merchandise.

had a pocket lined with crusts, and when no one was passing he threw one of them into my yard. Then he waited for a lady or gentleman who carried stick or umbrella and, trembling, appealed for the crust to be brought within his reach. The sympathy he excited was so great that he received a nickel or two from many who heard his plea.

ARTIST AND ARTISAN.

What It Is That Measures the Difference Between Them.

"My son is going to be an artist," said a proud father. "He does not need to study a lot of scientific rubbish."

Perhaps this father does not know that what he calls "scientific rubbish" measures the difference between the artisan and an artist, the difference between the common and the superb, between mediocrity and excellence. It was what this man called "scientific rubbish" which made the difference between the works of Michael Angelo and those of a hundred other artists of his day who have gone into oblivion. It was this "scientific rubbish"—studying anatomy for a dozen years—that gave immortality to the statues of Moses and David and to his paintings the "Last Judgment" and "The Story of Creation."

Many an artist of real ability has failed to produce any great work of art because of his ignorance of just such "scientific rubbish." Of what good is an artistic temperament or genius to the sculptor who does not know the origin, the insertion and the contour of the various muscles, who is not thoroughly familiar with the human anatomy? Michael Angelo thought it worth while to spend a great deal of time upon the anatomy of a horse and upon abstruse mathematics.—Success.

The remains of J. M. Deason, a fireman, passed through Bryan Sunday from Richland on the Houston and Texas central. How his death happened is not known, as no one saw him fall from the train. He was missed by the engineer just before reaching Richland, a searching crew was sent back and the body taken to Houston for interment. He leaves a widow and one child. Mr. Deason was raised in Brazos county, and was a brother of Mrs. Jolly Jones, who left yesterday to attend his funeral, and of Bob Deason now serving as a United States cavalryman in the Philippines. The unfortunate young man has many friends in the county who deeply deplore his tragic death.

Miss Ola Bidwell, celebrated as a baritone ballad singer, concert violinist and reader, delighted an appreciative audience at the Carnegie hall last night, appearing under the auspices of the ladies of the Baptist church, and justifying the words of hearty commendation from the press and public which had preceded her. The program took in the entire range of Miss Bidwell's triune accomplishments, and could hardly have embraced an equal number of better selections. Miss Bidwell has a phenomenal voice and is an accomplished violinist and dramatic reader, any one of these talents being sufficient to distinguish her. Mrs. W. C. Davis played accompaniments for the violin numbers.

The Eagle has been requested to call attention to the fact that flowers and vines are being continually uprooted and removed from lots in the city cemetery in violation of a city ordinance, which is a great annoyance to those who are making efforts to beautify the lots and grounds, and steps are being taken to put a stop to the practice. In other words, the Eagle is advised that watch is being kept on the cemetery and persons hereafter violating this ordinance will do so at the risk of detection and prosecution.

W. S. Wilson Jr. of Navasota was in the city Sunday and yesterday. M. Gordon is manager.

The carnival management has determined to prolong the stay in Bryan, being well pleased with the results the past week after the weather cleared up, and opened in full blast again yesterday afternoon and last night. The "Girl from Texas" left yesterday and another show will be put in the place of this attraction. Mr. Leon Brownie left yesterday for Beaumont to secure the new show. The carnival expects to remain here until April 1.

Yinkow, March 27.—Field Marshal Oyama has given out his first interview. He pays high tribute to the Russian soldiers, saying they are brave. Of his own troops, he says they have come up to expectations in every respect. The marshal says his country was forced into this war in the interest of international peace, and will arrange peace terms when the time comes.

Treated Kindly.

Gunshu Pass, March 27.—Everywhere along the front there is commiseration for the Russian soldiers. The reports of ill treatment of Russian sick and wounded after the evacuation of Mukden are entirely unfounded. The Japanese treated all who fell into their hands in the most kindly manner and gave the nurses permission to return to the Russian army.

SLEW HIS SPOUSE.

Bride of Tender Years Killed by Her Young Husband.

Atlanta, March 27.—A special to the Constitution from Jasper, Ga., says a young man named Glazier killed his bride wife, and that a posse is in pursuit. Glazier, who is about twenty years old, had been married but a short time to his wife, four years his junior. They had separated for some unknown cause, and she had gone to live with her mother. Glazier came to their home, asking the girl to return and live with him. Her mother added her entreaties, and she finally consented. They had gone but a short distance when shots were heard, and the young woman was found dead in the road, shot through the head.

BOMB INJURES CHIEF.

Missile Thrown Into Carriage of an Official at Warsaw.

ANOTHER IS HURLED.

Party First Threw One Into a Station, Hurting Several, and Then Awaited the Arrival of Baron Von Nolken.

Warsaw, March 27.—A bomb was thrown into the carriage of Baron von Nolken, chief of police of Warsaw, at 8 o'clock Sunday evening. According to the latest information the attack on Baron von Nolken was the result of an elaborate conspiracy of the Revolutionary party. Shortly before 8 o'clock an elegantly dressed man went to the police station at Praga, a large suburb of Warsaw on the other side of the Vistula, and threw a bomb into the courtyard of the station, wounding several persons, two dangerously. The man started to run away, but was caught by the captain of the station. He was found to be a Jew. A telephone message was immediately sent to Baron von Nolken at the city hall notifying him of the outrage. Baron von Nolken, accompanied by a police official, took a carriage and started immediately for Praga. When passing the castle where the governor general resides, a man standing on the pavement threw a bomb at the carriage. Baron von Nolken, who was sitting on the side nearest the assailant, received the full charge of the bomb, while his companion escaped unhurt. The coachman was thrown from the box and the carriage was smashed. Baron von Nolken was removed to the city hall and doctors were summoned, who found he had received injuries on the head, neck, arm and leg, which are believed to be serious.

Meanwhile the police official accompanying Baron von Nolken saw the bomb thrower fleeing and pursued and caught up with him, but the criminal proved the stronger and tore himself away.

Another policeman fired twice after him without result. Half an hour later a man was found dead in Sowia street.

A girl who was passing the spot when the bomb was thrown was wounded by splinters.

According to the theory of the police the man calculated on von Nolken going to Praga on learning of the explosion of the bomb at the station and knew he must pass the castle, that being the only road in which he could reach the only bridge across the Vistula. The affair caused great excitement. A popular rumor says the revolutionists are using this course of informing the police that they have more bombs on hand.

Baron von Nolken is very unpopular. He is hated by the masses of the Polish population, who hold him responsible for the sanguinary suppression of the disturbances here at the end of January. He has been here only a year, having come from St. Petersburg, where he was chief of the mounted division of police.

The bomb which exploded at the Praga police station was not thrown into the courtyard, but into a room of the station where the men assembled before going on duty. Six policemen were wounded and all the furniture, as well as one wall, was destroyed. The bomb thrower, in trying to escape, met a policeman and shot twice, wounding the officer in the stomach. The prisoner himself was wounded and has been placed in the hospital.

The man found dead in Sowia street proves to be a plain clothes policeman who was seen pursuing Baron von Nolken's assailant. The police believed the latter turned on the policeman and shot him dead.

WITHIN TWO WEEKS.

Japanese Expected to Land at a Port but Russians Will Resist.

St. Petersburg, March 27.—According to government mail advices brought to the mainland from Sakhalin and telegraphed from Khabarovsk, the Japanese are expected to land at Korsakovsk within a fortnight, the port being free from ice early in April. The Russians are not in a position to resist the whole force on the island being less than 2000 soldiers and prison guards. There are sixty convicts in the penal camps, the remainder of the population consisting of 3000 natives and 6000 time-expired convicts who have settled on the island. The prospect that the convicts may be landed on the mainland in the vicinity of Vladivostok by the Japanese is being considered.

Depot of Arms and Bombs.

Moscow, March 27.—An organized depot of arms and bombs was discovered on the premises of a rich merchant named Barassoff. Investigation disclosed a conspiracy to distribute the arms. There have been over 800 arrests.

No Change.

St. Petersburg, March 27.—General Linevitch, in a dispatch dated March 25, reports no change in the position of the armies. An imperial order relieves General Gripenberg from the command of the Second Manchurian army, but permits him to remain as aide-de-camp to the emperor.

One Probable Demand.

Paris, March 27.—It was stated in diplomatic quarters here Sunday that among the conditions of peace which Japan might ask would be that Russia give a pledge to build no more warships for a term of years.

THROWN BEHIND.

Bomb Hurler at Warsaw Chief of Police Was Aimed Inaccurately.

Warsaw, March 27.—Baron von Nolken, chief of police of Warsaw, who was injured by the explosion of a bomb Sunday, owes his life to the bad aim of his assailant, who threw the bomb behind instead of underneath the carriage. The body of von Nolken is full of innumerable splinters of the bomb. The man, who had previously thrown a bomb into the police station at Praga, a suburb of Warsaw, injuring six policemen, is believed to be dying. He was injured by the fragment of the bomb as well as by bullets fired at him by the police. He refuses to reveal his identity, but declares himself to be a Socialist. The greatest excitement prevails throughout the city.

WERE RELEASED.

Number of Russians Not Fighting Are Allowed Their Freedom.

Washington, March 27.—The Japanese legation has received the following cablegrams from Tokio:

"Of the Russian non-combatants who fell into our hands at Mukden the following have been released: In front of our advance guard forty-seven men ranking as officers, 359 men ranking as non-commissioned officers, nine nurses, two priests, four merchants attached to the army. Released at Chefoo and Shanghai, twenty-three men ranking as officers, twenty-three nurses, 293 men ranking as non-commissioned officers."

Rioters Have Destroyed Nearly All Warehouses and Shops Set on Fire.

Yalta, Crimea, March 27.—The situation here is becoming worse. Rioters have destroyed nearly all the warehouses and vodka shops and the police station and a number of shops have been set on fire. Troops are guarding the postoffice and treasury building.

St. Petersburg, March 27.—Since the proclamation of a state of siege work has been resumed at Batoum, and ships are again loading at the quays.

PRETORIA ARRIVES.

Three Babies Born During Her Stormy Voyage Over the Atlantic.

New York, March 27.—Three days behind her record time for the passage, the Hamburg-American line steamer Pretoria came in Monday from Hamburg with a story of extremely severe weather on the Atlantic. Constant westerly gales and head seas, varied only by periods marked by increase in adverse conditions was, in brief, the Pretoria's experience as related by her officers. One life was lost, that of a seaman, who was blown into the sea during a hurricane. The Pretoria's passenger list was increased by three births during her voyage. All births were in the steerage quarters. Among the passengers was Lieutenant A. Vargyos for the Russian army, en route to San Francisco to look after Russian transport affairs.

HARRIS ATTACKED.

Correspondent of a London Newspaper Wounded in His Stomach.

Tangier, March 27.—Walter B. Harris, correspondent of a London newspaper, was attacked Monday by a native while in the British postoffice. His assailant, a Moorish hotel guide, suddenly rushed upon him with a knife, which, however, struck the ring of Mr. Harris' watch and slightly wounded him in the stomach. Mr. Harris says he is not aware of any reason for the attack.

SHOT HIS SWEETHEART

Love-Sick Lad Wounds the Object of His Affections.

YOUTH LAID IN WAIT

Family of the Miss of Sixteen Summers Sought to Break His Infatuation by Not Letting Visit Adored One.

New York, March 27.—A search of the Meadows is being made about Corona, L. I., for William Smith, seventeen years old, who shot and dangerously wounded his sweetheart, Alice Ohlsen, sixteen years old. The love-sick lad's father fears he has committed suicide, but thus far there is no evidence of his having done so.

Miss Ohlsen's father is a Swedish clergyman, the author of several religious works. The family arrived in Corona a year ago from Chicago. Young Smith fell in love with Alice at their first meeting, and although he had just left a grammar school to work in a New York store, began a vigorous courtship. The Ohlsens endeavored to break the boy's infatuation by refusing to admit him to the house, but he lay in wait, and as Alice was starting for a walk with her mother he fired a shot at the girl. The bullet struck her in the breast and the boy fled. His victim was hurried to a hospital, where, it is said, she will probably recover, although badly wounded.

REFUSED BAIL.

Senator Hargis Only One of Four Permitted to Give Bond.

Lexington, Ky., March 27.—Judge James Hargis, his nephew, Elbert Hargis, and Sheriff Callahan of Breathitt county were held without bail, charged with complicity in the feud murder of James Cockrill in Jackson, Ky., three years ago, while Senator Alex. Hargis, arrested in the same connection, was released on $15,000 bail. The decision was announced by Judge Parker of the Fayette circuit court, who heard testimony last week on the question of bail, and trial of the case will be held at the present term of court.

Cockrill was shot and killed from a courthouse window at Jackson, and Curtis Jett, who had been convicted, was sentenced to death for connection with the crime, but Saturday was granted a new trial. Tom White is under life sentence for complicity in the crime. All the men arrested in connection with the crime are prominent Kentucky business men and few murder cases have created as much stir as this one.

CONSISTORY HELD.

Rt. Rev. Thomas F. Hickey Confirmed Coadjutor of Rochester.

Rome, March 27.—The pope held a secret consistory Monday morning without creating any cardinals, merely preconizing bishops. The only American was Rt. Rev. Thomas F. Hickey, who was confirmed as coadjutor bishop of Rochester, N. Y. Mgr. Sobico Racicot was confirmed an auxiliary bishop of Montreal. All cardinals met in the hall of the consistory of the Vatican, where they were received by the pontiff. The pontiff then delivered an allocution and immediately afterward proceeded to the preconization of bishops. The allocation in moderate terms deplored the persecution from which the church suffered in some countries and complained of recent events in France, where, beside the diplomatic rupture between the republic and the papacy, statesmen are preparing for the separation of church and state, for which the pontiff asserted again he is not responsible, as has been alleged, and the rupture was to be deplored.

The pope also referred to the persecution of the church in some South American republics, especially in Nicaragua and Ecuador, citing laws passed by the last named republic against the church, providing for the confiscation of property of religious orders, interfering with liberty of religious associations and putting obstacles in the way of appointments of new bishops. To offset this the pontiff mentioned the fact that arbitration between Chile and Peru had been entrusted to a papal representative, which caused the holy see much satisfaction.

LARGE LUMBER DEAL.

One Million Dollars Is Reported as Being the Purchase Price.

San Francisco, March 27.—A big lumber deal, involving the transfer of $1,000,000, is reported closed here. The purchasers are R. A. Long of Kansas City and several business associates in that place, among them W. F. Ryder, W. R. Hazen and C. B. Sweet, and a number of California persons, including George E. Ebbinger of Los Angeles and George X. Windling of this city.

LEGISLATORS' SALARIES.

Joint Resolution Providing For Them Passed to Third Reading.

Austin, March 27.—The joint resolution to pay members of the legislature $1000 for the first year and $5 per day for special sessions with mileage was passed to third reading in the house. An effort was made to inject an amendment prohibiting members from accepting free passes over railroads, but it was declared not germane to the resolution.

The house passed finally bill prohibiting roping contests in Texas.

The house passed finally by a vote of 69 to 43 the Southern Pacific railway merger bill, which authorizes the absorption by that road of New York and Texas Mexican, Galveston, Houston and Henderson and San Antonio and Gulf railways; also provides that the Southern Pacific shall extend from Stockdale to Cuero. Senate committee on Internal Improvements reported the bill favorably.

House passed finally bill to establish at Austin Confederate home for indigent wives and widows of Confederate veterans; also bill providing for city, town and village depositories; also bill requiring county treasurers to furnish detailed statement of funds in their charge on demand of county commissioners.

House joint resolution permitting counties to levy tax not exceeding 15 per cent on $100 valuation to pay jurors passed finally in house.

The senate passed finally the bill to prohibit by injunction renting of buildings for gambling purposes; also passed finally bill allowing corporations to be chartered for more than one purpose.

Governor Lanham approved the senate bill to authorize the Texas and New Orleans railway to sell that portion of its line extending from Dallas to Sabine Pass; also permitting children of members of legislature to attend school in Austin free of tuition.

GALVESTON RETURNS.

Cruiser Goes Back to the Norfolk Navy Yard For Repairs.

Norfolk, Va., March 27.—The United States cruiser Galveston, which sailed from the Norfolk navy yard for Galveston last Thursday on her maiden voyage for the purpose of "spanking down" her machinery, returned to the navy yard Monday, having put into Virginia capes Sunday. The cruiser's return, it is said at the office of Rear Admiral Harrington, commanding this naval station, is for repairs to her machinery. She had a slight break when the vessel had gotten some 300 miles down the coast. The piston rod of starboard engine is bent. It is further stated that she will be ready to proceed south again in a few days. It is positively asserted at the admirals office that the damage to the Galveston is in no way serious.

WILD FREIGHT CARS.

Run Into Another Train, Causing Four Fatalities and Much Damage.

Clarksville, Tenn., March 27.—A string of freight cars running wild crashed into a freight train on the Louisville and Nashville railroad near here. No one was in the wild cars. Following on freight train were killed John Murray, engineer, Bowling Green, Ky.; Pat Fox, fireman, Nashville; two negroes, names unknown, who were stealing rides. A stick of wood eight inches long was driven through Fireman Fox's body. The locomotive at ten loaded cars were totally wrecked. It is thought by railroad men that switch had been maliciously thrown for the purpose of wrecking the train.

PITIFUL PLIGHT.

The Inhabitants of Armenia Are on the Verge of Starvation.

Paris, March 27.—French foreign office renews its assurances that nothing has been undertaken here relative to peace negotiations. The Venezuelan status is unaltered, officials here taking the view that no action will be taken until the Caracas courts decide the question pending in regard to concession of French cable company.

Not Noticed.

A PARALLEL CASE

Condition of the A. & M. College of Texas the Same as That of Iowa's College in 1891.

WHAT AN INTER-URBAN RAILWAY

Did for It---Similar to the Proposed Bryan-College Railway---A Paying Investment From the Start.

The Eagle reporter had an interview last Saturday with Prof. C. F. Curtis, of Ames, Iowa, director of the Iowa agricultural experiment station, and dean of the school of agriculture. Prof. Curtis was here as a guest of Dr. D. F. Houston who asked him to give the reporter some items regarding the Iowa college's experience with an inter-urban railway, connecting the town of Ames and the college; the purpose being to throw some light upon the proposed Bryan-College electric railway.

Prof. Curtis said that the Iowa A. & M. College is located in the country, two miles from the town of Ames. Prior to the year 1891, the students of the college had to live in dormitories, built by the State, just as is the case with our A. & M. College. The attendance, restricted to the capacity of the dormitories, was under 400, and the work and influence of the school was quite limited, compared with what it is at present. Appropriations for dormitories were difficult to obtain, and students were crowded into improvised quarters of unsuitable character. The limit of the development of the school seemed to be reached.

But in 1891 the citizens of the village of Ames with a little help from outside capitalists, succeeded in the construction of a steam railway connecting the town and the school, allowing students and teachers who could not get accommodations at the school to find them in the town. The resulting effect upon both town and school was magical. The college began to grow with wonderful strides, and has kept it up ever since, until the present attendance is 1500, besides 600 to 700 short course students at certain seasons of the year. The town increased from a village of 1500 to more than 4000, and has no other resource of consequence except the college. It is not a county seat like Bryan, neither is it a trading point for a large territory, and Prof. Curtis said that without the support of the college it has little cause for existence at all.

Freed from the incubus of spending legislative appropriations for dormitories, the college turned its funds into legitimate educational work, and has grown in the favor of the people of Iowa until biennial appropriations for its support and maintenance amount to a million dollars. A new administration building, just completed, cost $375,000; a new agricultural hall $220,000, which with other buildings recently completed or in course of construction amount to a total cost of about $960,000. The school has grown more in ten years since it was united with the town by this railway, said Prof. Curtis, than it ever grew in thirty years previous thereto. One hundred private boarding houses have been built, one-third of the college faculty live in the town, and all supplies are drawn from the local merchants and dealers. The one-third of the faculty here referred to amounts to a considerable number of people, for the faculty is about four times as large as that of the A. & M. College of Texas.

A fare of ten cents for the round trip is charged. The road being only two miles long, the inducement for patronage is not so great as Bryan road would have, for many students will walk back and forth when the distance is only two miles, whereas in the case of our proposed road, the distance would be a bar to such competition. Yet the little railroad has paid dividends on the investment from the very first. Ten per cent was paid the first year, and it is now paying 15 per cent. The capital stock of the company was $20,000, and it rose six months after the road was completed, to a premium of four and a half per cent. The road hauls passengers, express, mail, and general supplies. The dividends referred to have been paid, in spite of the expense of re-laying rails, substituting steel for iron. The directors of the road are now preparing to replace steam power with electricity, a move for more economical operation. The fact that the Bryan road would begin electric power is another point of the comparison that is in our favor.

Prof. Curtis thinks that our college has arrived at about the status that theirs had in 1891, but he thinks it has unusually bright prospects if given an opportunity to grow. The A. & M. college of Iowa is surrounded by six similar colleges of other states, the distance to any of which is under three hundred miles, while ours has an immense surrounding territory without another college of the kind. Here is the extensive area of Texas, Oklahoma and the Indian Territory to the north, New Mexico, Arizona and Old Mexico to the west and southwest, while it has patronage now from both Arkansas and Louisiana. The Texas college, Professor Curtis said, enjoys a splendid reputation already made.

By way of comment on the foregoing, The Eagle will say that the people of Bryan have presented to them here, on the very best authority, a case that parallels ours, and shows up very favorably indeed for the contention that Bryan should build the proposed electric railway to the College.

They had been engaged for a week. Felicia's heart was full of the sweet wonder of it, yet her mind clung tenaciously to a theory imbibed in the unrecorded days that went before. It seemed a terrible theory now; but, bewildered though she was, she acknowledged its claim.

"Jack," she said solemnly, "an engagement should be the lightest, most easily broken thing in the world."

"Eh—what?" exclaimed her companion in amazement, bringing his truant gaze back from the stretch of moonlit country whose poetry seemed a symbol of his own happiness. "What's that you're saying?"

"An engagement," she repeated gravely, "should be taken as an experiment, a trial. At the first suspicion on the part of either person that he or she has made a mistake it should be broken."

An unconscious sigh expressed the relief she felt at getting this sentiment off her mind. Another moment and he was leaning toward her, with her hands clasped firmly, almost roughly, in his, his voice sterner than she had ever heard it.

"See here, little girl!"

At something that he saw in her face he stopped, and his glance softened.

"I see," he said at last, with boyish relief. "It's only a theory. But you

eyes and smile nullified all attempts at criticism.

Jack, too, seemed impressed by the unusual character of the newcomer's charm. In repose her face was almost ugly. Then she would turn those wonderful, cooing eyes upon you and smile, and forever after you watched and waited.

Even in that first hour Felicia trembled for her supremacy. Covertly she noticed that Jack was as irresistibly attracted as she herself was. For ten whole minutes he had not once looked in her own direction.

"She has a lovely smile," the latter observed craftily as her lover walked home with her.

"Heaven!" was his unsuspecting answer. "And her eyes! By Jove, I never saw such eyes! It isn't that they're so beautiful, but it's what they say. When she looks at you you feel as if you're it!"

Felicia, walking behind him in the narrow path, felt suddenly bereft. She didn't have eyes that made you feel that you were it. She didn't have a smile that even Jack grew enthusiastic over. She was just pretty.

"So unusual! She draws you in spite of yourself. I simply can't keep my eyes off her. She's fascinating."

On he went in the same strain, too absorbed expressing his interest and admiration to his other self to notice the forlorn brevity of her replies.

But in spite of his protests she was obdurate, and he went away in a huff. If Felicia were capricious during the following week, Miss Danby was all that a man could wish. In her society Jack's wounded pride was soothed and comforted. She made him forget his worries and appear at his best.

Once, and once only, he had a heretical thought. He wished Felicia were more like her. Then he winced at his own disloyalty. Dear, blue-eyed, sunny Felicia! A wave of tenderness swept over him, and he determined to find out without further delay what was the impalpable shadow that lay between them ever since the Danbys came.

"Well, by Jove!" he exclaimed aloud, a light dawning upon him. Then, as if there were really no use of trying adequately to express the wonder that the suspicion caused him, he exclaimed again helplessly, "By Jove!"

"And she is the lady who believes that an engagement should be the lightest of ties; that engaged people should see as much as possible of unengaged ones. Oh, my eye!" And he threw back his head and roared with delight.

That afternoon they had it out. Felicia, with burning cheeks and flashing eyes, accused him hotly.

"You've been perfectly daft over her from the first moment. There's no use of denying it. You know you have, and our engagement!"

She choked, and Jack, who stood looking down at her, his hand thrust in the pockets of his short coat, finished the sentence.

"Has stood the test of the third person," he said in a teasing voice. Then he held out his arms, and after one startled, questioning glance she went to him.

Would Take It.

He was a theatrical lover, and she didn't like his style in the least.

He was constant in his devotion, however, and that made matters worse. She had tried gentle means to get rid of him, but he had disregarded them with painful persistency.

In this moment of her desperation he felt it incumbent upon him to propose to her, as men under similar circumstances so often do.

"Dear one," he exclaimed, hurling himself tragically at her feet, "I love you. My life is yours. Will you take it?"

She did not look like a murderess. "Mr. Singleton," she responded, with calm determination, "I will."

He gazed at her rapturously. "Don't do that!" she begged, drawing back from him as if in horror. "I have taken your life, as you requested me to do, and you are henceforth to all intents and purposes dead."

He seemed dazed.

"I do not, Mr. Singleton," she continued, turning aside, "desire to have a dead person in the house, and if you do not go away at once I shall send for an undertaker and have you removed to the nearest cemetery."

Then the dreadful situation in which his own precipitate folly had placed him was revealed, and he removed himself with promptness and dispatch.

Think of Others.

A gentleman who was traveling in Ireland sat down one day in a cottage to talk with an old woman. As they were having their "dish of discourse" there came a clap of thunder, and the old woman at once spread out her hands in supplication, crying:

"God bless and save us! And save his honor and save the people and all of us!"

For the space of half an hour the thunder was frequent, and each time she prayed. Then she told the visitor this story, which has a good moral in its defining of the proper spirit which should belong to prayer:

"There was a man, and he was working in a field like, and it came on to thunder, and he put his head in a hole in the wall, and he said:

"God save what's out o' me!"

"But he ought to have prayed for the whole of him, for he no sooner said that than the wall fell and took his head off."

"It was telled to me that his was a judgment on the crathur because it is not right to pray small, just for yourself. But you should pray large—to save us all—pray big and open hearted. But that may be only a story, sir."

WHY?

The reason One Minute Cough Cure relieves a cough in one minute, is because it acts first on the mucous membrane right where the cough troubles—in the throat or deep-seated on the lungs, destroying the microbes or cough germs and clearing the phlegm. One Minute Cough Cure not only destroys the disease germs, and clears out their poison, but it gives strength and elasticity to the delicate membranes which protect the throat and lungs. Opens the passages and promotes unobstructed breathing. Causes the blood to receive its natural supply of oxygen, thus enabling the pulmonary organs to such strength and vigor that the lungs and bronchial tubes become built up against the inception of disease. Asthma, Bronchitis, La Grippe, Cold on the Lungs and all Pulmonary Complaints that are curable are quickly cured by the use of special venire of 100 men supplied for the case of William McCorquodale, charged with the killing of Henry Spell

December 7, 1904, which was taken up yesterday morning, both sides announcing ready for trial. The absence of several veniremen caused delay in getting started with the case, as attachments had to be issued, in consequence of which Judge Scott took occasion to comment on the great and needless expense to the county caused by absent jurymen and emphasized the fact that exemption can only be claimed when the juror is present in person.

Fines were entered against several persons, among others a $100 fine against the sheriff of Harris county for failure to have four witnesses here.

In the McCorquodale case Judge
A. G. Board, Doremus & Butler and J. G. Minkert represent the defendant, and District Attorney Ralston, Henderson, Hudson &
Ford, J. R. Astin, Lamar Bethea and T. R. Ratte the State.

The work of selecting the jury proceeded rapidly after dinner until the special venire was exhausted, excepting those for whom attachments had issued. Nine jurors were secured. There were comparatively few challenges, eight for the State and four for the defendant; but many disqualified.
The court ordered that the seven veniremen for whom attachments were issued and another venire of thirty men be on hand at ten o'clock this morning, when the case will be resumed. The following are the jurors secured so far:

L. D. McGee, J. C. Lloyd, Tony Dyess, W. R. Parker, H. Z. T. Wilson, W. P. Burkhalter, J. L. Sample, Wiley Kelley, T. R. Josey.

IMPROVEMENTS AT VILLA MARIA.

Very considerable improvements are being made at Villa Maria Academy—more than ever before since the splendid main structure was completed. Additions are being made to the building, and as usual with the Sisters, all the work is of the most substantial and enduring nature. Galleries are being built around the building at places where no additions are made.

This is for the protection of the foundations and these galleries will also promote comfort and convenience. New cisterns are being put in, with the purpose of having cistern water alone for drinking purposes. The Sisters are ever alert for the health of the children and themselves.

The peach orchard is in full bloom, and is probably without exception, the finest and largest orchard in the county. There are five hundred fine peach trees, now three years old, which will bear a fine crop this season. They have had good culture and attention, are all fine, well shaped trees, and constitute a valuable asset of the institution. The small fruit acreage has been increased;
the vineyard is flourishing, several hundred shade and ornamental trees have been planted, and Villa Maria gives promise of soon becoming a horticultural and arboreal paradise.

MECHANICAL WONDERS.

The Toys Louis XIV. Played With in His Childhood Days.

An extraordinary piece of mechanism was constructed for the amusement of Louis XIV. when a child. It consisted of a small coach drawn by two horses in which was the figure of a lady, with a footman and page behind. According to the account given by M. Camus, the constructor, this coach being placed at the extremity of a table of a determinate size, the coachman smacked his whip, and the horses immediately set out, moving their legs in a natural manner. When the carriage reached the edge of the table it turned on a right angle and proceeded along that edge till it arrived opposite to the place where the king was seated. It then stopped, and the page, getting down, opened the door, upon which the lady alighted, having in her hand a petition, which she presented, with a courtesy. After waiting some time she again courtesied and re-entered the carriage. The page then resumed his place, the coachman whipped up his horses, which began to move, and the footman, running after the carriage, jumped up behind it.

Louis XIV. had also an automaton opera in five acts, with fresh scenes for each. It measured sixteen and a half inches in breadth, thirteen inches four lines in height and one inch three lines in thickness for the working of the machinery.—Westminster Gazette.

RESURRECTION PLANTS.

The Curious Rose of Jericho and the Mexican Fern Ball.

The rose of Jericho is perhaps one of the most familiar of the curiosities of plant life known as resurrection plants.
It is said to be imported from the valley of the river Jordan and is the resurrection plant mentioned in the Bible.
The plant when received from its native home is simply a bunch of leafless and seemingly lifeless sticks or branches clustered tightly together.
When placed in a glass of water, however, the branches expand, seed buds unfold, and soon the green foliage starts out, and the plant grows.

The Mexican resurrection plant is the fluffy, fernlike variety often noticed in saucers of water in the florist's window. When it is dormant it is a shrunken, rounded ball of tightly folded leaflets, dry and dead.

It is dropped in a bowl of tepid water, and soon one frondlike tip curls slowly outward, then another and another, and in a short time there is floating in the dish a beautiful metallic green plant, a great, loose, expanded rosette of fine fernlike leaves, odd and beautiful.

This experiment can be repeated many times, the plant curling together tightly when dry and expanding into new life when soaked in water.—
Young People's Weekly.

GAS AS AN ILLUMINANT.

China, It Has Been Asserted, Used
It Centuries Ago.

It has been asserted, but never proved conclusively, that China used gas for lighting purposes centuries before its use in the western world. If this was so it was doubtless natural gas.

Clayton, at the end of the seventeenth century, stored gas in bladders and played with it at times, and Lord Dundonald in 1787, in working a patent for coal tar, stored up the gas and occasionally used it for lighting up the hall of Culross abbey.

It is to the genius of a Scotsman, W.
Murdoch, that we owe our bright il-luminant. In 1792 he was living at Redruth, Cornwall, and after experiments in gasmaking he lit up his own house, much to the astonishment of his neighbors.

Called to Birmingham, he erected a large plant for lighting up the Sobo works. This drew attention to the whole matter, and in 1803 London began street lighting. The Royal society in 1808 gave Murdoch its Rum-ford gold medal for his invention.—
London Standard.

A Unique Collection.

Among the curious ways by which some persons in England make a living is the sale of castoff garments belonging to distinguished personages, for which the curiosity loving fashionable world affords a sure and profitable market. One English lady has a collection of corsets, including articles from the wardrobes of reigning imperial and royal personages as well as objects of historical interest. Among the latter are a leather corset belonging to Charlotte Corday, the heroine of the French revolution, and a construction of whalebone and steel worn by Marie Antoinette, with an eighteen inch waist.—Toliettes.

The Other Side.

"It's all very well for the minister to aged matron, "but I wish he would now give us an encouraging sermon upon the wife's lot."

ARTIST AND ARTISAN.

What It Is That Measures the Difference Between Them.

"My son is going to be an artist," said a proud father. "He does not need to study a lot of scientific rubbish."

Perhaps this father does not know that what he calls "scientific rubbish" measures the difference between the artisan and an artist, the difference between the common and the superb, between mediocrity and excellence. It was what this man called "scientific rubbish" which made the difference between the works of Michael Angelo and those of a hundred other artists of his day who have gone into oblivion.
It was this "scientific rubbish"—studying anatomy for a dozen years—that gave immortality to the statues of Moses and David and to his paintings
the "Last Judgment" and "The Story of Creation."

Many an artist of real ability has failed to produce any great work of art because of his ignorance of just such "scientific rubbish." Of what good is an artistic temperament or genius to the sculptor who does not know the origin, the insertion and the contour of the various muscles, who is not thoroughly familiar with the human anatomy? Michael Angelo thought it worth while to spend a great deal of time upon the anatomy of a horse and upon abstruse mathematics.—Success.

Must Have Outgrown It.

She (11:30 a. m.)—Do you know anything about baseball, Mr. Boren? H—Yes, indeed! I was considered the best amateur shortstop in the country a few years ago. She—Well, I never would have thought it.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

The remains of J. M. Deason, a fireman, passed through Bryan Sunday from Richland on the Houston and Texas central. How his death happened is not known, as no one saw him fall from the train. He was missed by the engineer just before reaching Richland, a searching crew was sent back and the body taken to Houston for interment. He leaves a widow and one child. Mr. Deason was raised in Brazos county, and was a brother of Mrs. Jolly Jones, who left yesterday to attend his funeral, and of Bob Deason now serving as a United States cavalryman in the Philippines. The unfortunate young man has many friends in the county who deeply deplore his tragic death.

Miss Ola Bidwell, celebrated as a baritone ballad singer, concert violinist and reader, delighted an appreciative audience at the Carnegie hall last night, appearing under the auspices of the ladies of the Baptist church, and justifying the words of hearty commendation from the press and public which had preceded her. The program took in the entire range of Miss Bidwell's triune accomplishments, and could hardly have embraced an equal number of better selections. Miss Bidwell has a phenomenal voice and is an accomplished violinist and dramatic reader, any one of these talents being sufficient to distinguish her. Mrs. W. C. Davis played accompaniments for the violin numbers.

The Eagle has been requested to call attention to the fact that flowers and vines are being continually uprooted and removed from lots in the city cemetery in violation of a city ordinance, which is a great annoyance to those who are making efforts to beautify the lots and grounds, and steps are being taken to put a stop to the practice. In other words, the Eagle is advised that watch is being kept on the cemetery and persons hereafter violating this ordinance will do so at the risk of detection and prosecution.

W. S. Wilson Jr. of Navasota was in the city Sunday and yesterday. Mr. Wilson will go to Lufkin, Texas April 1 to take the management of the branch wholesale grocery business of Kirkland & Morrow of Houston, located at Lufkin. The branch house of Carson, Sewall & Co. at Navasota, of which Mr. Wilson has had the management for some time, will be discontinued on April 1 and its territory supplied from the Bryan house of this firm, of which Mr. E. M. Gordon is manager.

The carnival management has determined to prolong the stay in Bryan, being well pleased with the results the past week after the weather cleared up, and opened up in full blast again yesterday afternoon and last night. The "Girl from Texas" left yesterday and another show will be put in the place of this attraction. Mr. Leon Brownie left yesterday for Beaumont to secure the new show. The carnival expects to remain here until April 1.

W. S. Wilson, H. G. Rhodes, D. F. Dansby, W. J. Coulter, A. M. Waldrop, Will Saunders and Frank Myers attended the Knights of Pythias district meeting at Calvert yesterday and last night.

BOMB INJURES CHIEF.

Missile Thrown Into Carriage of an Official at Warsaw.

ANOTHER IS HURLED.

Party First Threw One Into a Station, Hurting Several, and Then Awaited the Arrival of Baron Von Nolken.

Warsaw, March 27.—A bomb was thrown into the carriage of Baron von Nolken, chief of police of Warsaw, at 8 o'clock Sunday evening. According to the latest information the attack on Baron von Nolken was the result of an elaborate conspiracy of the Revolutionary party. Shortly before 8 o'clock an elegantly dressed man went to the police station at Praga, a large suburb of Warsaw on the other side of the Vistula, and threw a bomb into the court yard of the station, wounding several persons, two dangerously. The man started to run away, but was caught by the captain of the station. He was found to be a Jew. A telephone message was immediately sent to Baron von Nolken at the city hall notifying him of the outrage. Baron von Nolken, accompanied by a police official took a carriage and started immediately for Praga. When passing the castle where the governor general resides, a man standing on the pavement threw a bomb at the carriage. Baron von Nolken, who was sitting on the side nearest the assailant, received the full charge of the bomb, while his companion escaped unhurt. The coachman was thrown from the box and the carriage was smashed.

Baron von Nolken was removed to the city hall and doctors were summoned, who found he had received injuries on the head, neck, arm and leg, which are believed to be serious.

Meanwhile the police official accompanying Baron von Nolken saw the bomb thrower fleeing and pursued and caught up with him, but the criminal proved the stronger and tore himself away.

Another policeman fired twice after him without result. Half an hour later a man was found dead in Sowia street. A girl who was passing the spot when the bomb was thrown was wounded by splinters.

According to the theory of the police the man calculated on von Nolken going to Praga on learning of the explosion of the bomb at the station and knew he must pass the castle, that being the only road in which he could reach the only bridge across the Vistula. The affair caused great excitement. A popular rumor says the revolutionists are using this course of informing the police that they have more bombs on hand.

Baron von Nolken is very unpopular. He is hated by the masses of the Polish population, who hold him responsible for the sanguinary suppression of the disturbances here at the end of January. He has been here only a year, having come from St. Petersburg, where he was chief of the mounted division of police.

The bomb which exploded at the Praga police station was not thrown into the courtyard, but into a room of the station where the men assembled before going on duty. Six policemen were wounded and all the furniture, as well as one wall, was destroyed.

The bomb thrower, in trying to escape, met a policeman and shot twice, wounding the officer in the stomach. The prisoner himself was wounded and has been placed in the hospital.

The man found dead in Sowia street proves to be a plain clothes policeman who was seen pursuing Baron von Nolken's assailant. The police believed the latter turned on the policeman and shot him dead.

There are sixty convicts in the penal camps, the remainder of the population consisting of 3000 natives at 3 6000 time-expired convicts who have settled on the island. THROWN BEHIND.

Bomb Hurler at Warsaw Chief of Police Was Aimed Inaccurately.

Warsaw, March 27.—Baron von Nolken, chief of police of Warsaw, who was injured by the explosion of a bomb Sunday, owes his life to the bad aim of his assailant, who threw the bomb behind instead of underneath the carriage. The body of von Nolken is full of innumerable splinters of the bomb. The man, who had previously thrown a bomb into the police station at Praga, a suburb of Warsaw, injuring six policemen, is believed to be dying. He was injured by the fragment of the bomb as well as by bullets fired at him by the police. He refuses to reveal his identity, but declares himself to be a Socialist. SHOT HIS SWEETHEART

Love-Sick Lad Wounds the Object of His Affections.

YOUTH LAID IN WAIT

Family of the Miss of Sixteen Summers Sought to Break His Infatuation by Not Letting Visit Adored One.

New York, March 27.—A search of the Meadows is being made about Corona, L. I. for William Smith, seventeen years old, who shot and dangerously wounded his sweetheart, Alice Ohlsen, sixteen years old. The love-sick lad's father fears he has committed suicide, but thus far there is no evidence of his having done so.

Miss Ohlsen's father is a Swedish clergyman, the author of several religious works. The family arrived in Corona a year ago from Chicago. Young Smith fell in love with Alice at their first meeting, and although he had just left a grammar school to work in a New York store, began a vigorous courtship. The Ohlsens endeavored to break the boy's infatuation by refusing to admit him to the house, but he lay in wait, and as Alice was starting for a walk with her mother he fired a shot at the girl. The bullet struck her in the breast and the boy fled. His victim was hurried to a hospital, where, it is said, she will probably recover, although badly wounded.

The decision was announced by Judge Parker of the Fayette circuit court, who heard testimony last week on the question of bail, and trial of the case will be held at the present term of court.

Cockrill was shot and killed from a courthouse window at Jackson, and Curtis Jett, who had been convicted, was sentenced to death for connection with the crime, but Saturday was granted a new trial. Tom White is under life sentence for complicity in the crime. All the men arrested in connection with the crime are prominent Kentucky business men and few murder cases have created as much stir as this one.

CONSISTORY HELD.

Rt. Rev. Thomas F. Hickey Confirmed Coadjutor of Rochester.

Rome, March 27.—The pope held a secret consistory Monday morning without creating any cardinals, merely preconizing bishops. The only American was Rt. Rev. Thomas F. Hickey, who was confirmed as coadjutor bishop of Rochester, N. Y. Mr. Sobico Racicot was confirmed an auxiliary bishop of Montreal. All cardinals met in the hall of the consistory of the Vatican, where they were received by the pontiff. The pontiff then delivered an allocution and immediately afterward proceeded to the preconization of bishops. The allocution in moderate terms deplored the persecution from which the church suffered in some countries and complained of recent events in France, where, beside the diplomatic rupture between the republic and the papacy, statesmen are preparing for the separation of church and state, for which the pontiff asserted again he is not responsible, as has been alleged, and the rupture was to be deplored.

The pope also referred to the persecution of the church in some South American republics, especially in Nicaragua and Ecuador, citing laws passed by the last named republic against the church, providing for the confiscation of property of religious orders, interfering with liberty of religious associations and putting obstacles in the way of appointments of new bishops. To offset this the pontiff mentioned the fact that arbitration between Chile and Peru had been entrusted to a papal representative, which caused the holy see much satisfaction.
